About

Steve Bosak's Big Red Clinic is a once in a lifetime opportunity for young wrestlers to learn from three national champions, who have rewritten the Cornell and NCAA record books. Our team of Long Branch clinicians includes: Steve Bosak, Cam Simaz and Cornell assistant coach, Damion Hahn. Amongst our team of Big Red Champs clinicians, we won a total of four National Championships and achieved 11 years of All-America statuses. Each member of our Big Red Champs team fosters different techniques and skills that brought us success throughout our careers.

Mission

At Cornell, we do not try to mold wrestlers into one specific style, but we help them to hone in on their natural ability, and perfect a style that is all their own. Our philosophy is: if a move works, why change it when you can improve it? Cornell wrestlers are different types of wrestlers, but several of us have all reached the pinnacle of collegiate wrestling- winning a National Championship. Through this very same mindset, we will use our experience and success to help create the next generation of National Champions.

Damion Hahn

- Cornell Assistant Coach
- 2x NCAA Champion
- 4X All-American
- Big Ten Male Athlete of the Year

Cornell assistant coach Damion Hahn has had a career that is nothing less than remarkable. Hahn became a 2x National Champion and 4x All-American during his collegiate career and has served on the coaching staff at Cornell for the past seven years. After his senior season at the University of Minnesota, Hahn earned the coveted Jesse Owens Male Athlete of the Year award, given to the top male athlete in the Big Ten. Hahn's individual success has had a direct impact on the success of the Cornell wrestling program. Since Hahn has joined the Cornell coaching staff, the team has won a record breaking seven consecutive EIWA Titles and increased its national presence by an elite level of success at the NCAA's most competitive tournaments. Over the past five years, Hahn has served as the personal coach for NCAA Champions, Steve Bosak and Cam Simaz, who both serve as clinicians. Through the Big Red Champs Clinic, Hahn will effectively teach the same techniques that have catapulted his and his wrestlers' successful careers.

Steve is one of the most successful wrestlers to ever wear a Big Red singlet. Steve graduated from Cornell this spring, but leaves a tremendous legacy as a 2012 National Champion and a 3X All-American in the 184 pound weight class. In addition to these outstanding accomplishments, Steve closed out his career with 39 pins, (4th place all time in the Cornell record books), 74 bonus wins (6th all-time), and 131 wins (7th all time). Steve was a two-time team captain, with him and Kyle Dake being named the first junior captains in the program's history. Cam Simaz is one of Cornell's most distinguished wrestlers of all time. Cam graduated last year as 2012 National Champion, a 4X All-American at the 197 pound weight class, and won countless tournament titles throughout his career. Cam capped off his senior season as the only Cornell wrestler to ever obtain 100 bonus wins.
